Monthly report – 31 August 2025

Performance summary

- The Fund returned 1.38%, net of fees, in August 2025, compared with a return for the Benchmark of 2.04%.
- Health Care rebounded during August to, together with Financials, lead the index higher. For the Fund, the largest relative sector detractors included IT, driven by the Fund's holdings in Fortinet and TSCM, and Financials, due to underweight positioning and holdings including AIA Group and Moody's. The largest relative sector contributor was Health Care, due to Fund's overweight positioning to the sector.
- Fortinet was among the top individual detractors from performance in August. A leading network security company, Fortinet continues to gain market share in the fragmented network security market and to expand into adjacent cybersecurity markets via its Security Fabric platform. Despite having reported good Q2 earnings, with revenues up 13% year on year, Fortinet's share price dropped during August. This was primarily related to the company's firewall refresh cycle, as it reported being 40-50% complete with its 2026 firewall upgrade plan. This suggests that future revenue from hardware refreshes may be lower than earlier projections.
- IDEXX Laboratories was among the top individual contributors to performance in August. A leading animal diagnostics business, the company is well positioned to capture the multiple tailwinds benefiting the animal healthcare market. An expanding and ageing pet population, coupled with greater attentiveness to an animal's state of wellbeing and innovation in therapeutics and diagnostics, has resulted in the pet diagnostics market growing at a high-single-digit rate. IDEXX has proven its ability to provide diagnostic products and services, tightly integrated with a growing software business.
- The Fund completed the initial purchase of Ferrari during the month. Ferrari is one of the world's most successful luxury brands, representing decades of innovation, heritage, and sporting prestige. Its tightly controlled low-volume production strategy preserves exclusivity and supports strong residual values. This brand power has enabled steady price increases, boosting margins and returns on capital.
- The Fund completed the final sale of Waters Corporation during the month. The company was sold following its US $17.5 billion acquisition of Becton Dickinson's bioscience and diagnostics unit. This will double its sales but, while strategically aligned, the deal introduces years of execution risk. Walter Scott do not believe the enlarged business offers an improved long-term investment case to justify the added complexity and uncertainty.
